Durham City Freemen

Guide for the Wardens
Foreword and Purpose

Over the centuries that the Guilds have been in existence there will have been rules and procedures in place to manage the organisation.

These will have changed many times to address the changing circumstances. At this point in time the modus operandi appear to be of custom and practice delivered through a verbal arrangement.

In the absence of a written constitution being available, the following Guide has been developed, based partly on custom and practice and partly by addressing its current needs.

The focus for drawing up a Guide is twofold.

1. To clearly define the roles of responsibility of the posts that are charged with managing the organisation, to provide clear information for members placing themselves forward for office as Wardens of Companies or as Chairman of the Wardens.

2. To assist in the smooth transition of responsibilities at the end of tenure of posts or from unexpected resignations.

This Guide has been developed to address the current situation and it may be necessary from time to time make changes as the organisation continues to develop.
